HELP US OUT, FILL IN THE QUESTIONNAIRE JOIN A COMMITTEE

You will find inserted in this issue of the Newsletter a one-page questionnaire asking for your opinions about GSV, what it does and what it might do. Take a few minutes to write down some ideas, and don't be afraid to come up with crazy ones. We want as many responses as we have members. If you don't have anything to say to one question or another, answer those that do attract your attention.

Send completed questionnaires to John A. Leppman, 29 Oak Hill Terrace, Bellows Falls, Vermont 05101. We haven't provided a postpaid envelope, but we hope that you'll consider your opinions to be worth the expenditure of 32 cents for postage. Or you can bring the questionnaire along to the May 17 meeting in St. Johnsbury.

We need members for three GSV committees:

Publications Committee

Responsible for overseeing all GSV publications, including Vermont Genealogy, the Newsletter, and special publications such as vital records books, Vermont Families in 1791, and so forth. The committee's interests range from brainstorming ideas for new publications to the technical aspects of seeing publications to completion. The editors of Vermont Genealogy and the Newsletter are ex officio members. The committee has met a few times a year at a location central to members' homes; it can do some of its work by mail, phone, and e-mail. We are looking for a few members with interests in promoting high quality genealogical publication. Desirable but not absolutely necessary qualifications include knowledge of the genealogical literature and current standards of genealogical publication, and understanding of technical aspects of book printing.

Publicity and Advancement Committee
Responsible for publicizing GSV and its activities, through newspapers and other media in Vermont and vicinity; print and electronic communications in the genealogical world; and a GSV brochure to be made available at as many outlets as possible. The goal is to maximize exposure to the public of our organization and its activities, and thereby increase membership, participation in meetings and other events, and sales of publications. Projects which need work include development of a data base of names of newspapers and genealogical publications for publicity articles and development of a list of suitable places in and out of Vermont to distribute our brochure. Although occasional face-to-face meetings will be needed, much of the committee's work can be done by mail if members have clear assignments to carry out.

Program Committee

Responsible for finding speakers helping with other plans for our twice-yearly meetings. Members should have knowledge of potential genealogical speakers. Much of the work can be done by telecommunications

Please note that residence in Vermont is by no means a prerequisite to participation on any of these committees. Members who live at too great a distance to participate at face-to-face meetings can nonetheless contribute expertise and effort.

We try to keep the committee structures of GSV to a reasonable minimum. A few more dedicated members will fill the slots we have and bring our committee strength to where it should be. Please contact John Leppman or any other officer if you would like to participate. Write to us on the back of the questionnaire. Or, if we contact you, try to do what you can.

John Leppman, President

at 101 Newbury Street, Boston, MA

Free Lectures

Wednesday evenings at 6:00 p.m.

May 14, 1997: Seventeenth-Century New England Houses and Their Genealogical Significance, by Abbott Lowell Cummings. The ways in which distinctive building habits and even room nomenclature can serve the genealogist as clues to the background of the people who constructed and occupied these houses.

June 11, 1997: In Honor of Medicine Women, Warriors and Athletes: Case Studies in Native American Genealogy. Mark Choquet will discuss methods and sources for Native American genealogical research. He will also explore the notable contributions and achievements of Northeastern Indians since European and African immigration to this continent.

For brochures, more information, registration and fees call NEHGS Education Department toll-free 1-888-AT NEHGS [286-3447] or write 101 Newbury St., Boston, MA 02116-3007

Saturday Seminar: "Gravestones as a Genealogical Resource"

June 7, 1997, 12:00 p.m.
101 Newbury Street, Boston, MA

Laurel K. Gable, a noted author on the subject of gravestones will give a slide lecture on the evolution of gravestone styles and symbolism and ways to interpret the information one can gleam from the stones. John Sterling, who is heading the program to document the older cemeteries in Rhode Island, will give a slide lecture on the information he has found. He will describe how his database program can be a model for others in transcription projects. Jonathan Fairbanks, curator of American Decorative Arts at the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, will discuss how to put gravestones in the social context of other artifacts our ancestors made and used in the 17th and 18th centuries.

STREETER & RICH PAPERS

I have a collection of Streeter Papers, about 3 inches thick. They are unsorted and include mostly information about Lunenberg, Vermont families as well as other musings.

I also have a collection of 19 newsletters from the "Rich Family Association," dating from 1969 through 1980 (incomplete)

I will send them for the price of postage to the first person who contacts me. I cannot sort the Streeter/Lunenberg materials and will send it all as one group. Also, I will only send Rich Family Association materials as one group. Please contact Janet Induni, Genealogical Society of Vermont, PO Box 1553, St. Albans, VT 05478-1006.

KIMBALL & LUCE RECORDS

A small (4X6 inch) paper bound booklet of 10 pages begins with Andrew Kimball, born in 1726 in Old Amherst, MA. His son Jididiah Kimball was born in 1748 in Stowe, VT. Orange & Eunice Luce had a son Curtis O. Luce of Brandon, VT. If you are interested in obtaining the book, contact John M. Caspole, 52 Rosemary Lane, E. Falmouth, MA 02536-6186.

LA ROCQUE/LAROCQUES FAMILIES

An international effort is underway to link as many La Rocque/Larocques together as possible. The family is represented in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France & Germany. Joan will also assist with information exchange in the Boston area. Please contact Joan LaRocque, P.O. Box 744, Reading, MA 01867 (617) 944-8120 or by e-mail at: <http://www.jlaroc@concentric.net>

The Kimball Family Association will hold its 29th annual reunion at Paugus Bay Plaza in Guilford, NH on September 26-28, 1997. Many events are planned including the KFA historical collection. Meet your cousins, enjoy Lake Winnipesaukee, & walk the Kimball Wildlife Trail. Contact Judith Kimball, 14 Monson Rd., Kittery, ME, 03904-5534.

The Putnam Family Reunion is always held on the last Sunday of July at 12:00 o'clock noon. It's a "pot-luck" picnic and each family brings their own table ware. Contact: Loraine and Louise Putnam, RR 2, Box 98, Bethel, VT 05032

Announcements of family reunions must be received by the editor no later than March 15 each year to be included in the May Newsletter. Be sure to include date, place, name & address of contact person.

ARE YOU MOVING?

Please advise the Society of your new address as soon as possible. If your mail is forwarded to your new address, GSV receives notification from the Post Office in the form of a Postage Due Notice and a photocopy of the cover copy of Vermont Genealogy that was forwarded to you. Each one costs us fifty cents. Please help us cut down these expenses by notifying the Society at PO Box 1553, St. Albans, VT, 05478. The money can be better spent elsewhere.

Excerpt from Preface to
The Early Hunt Families of Vermont
by Mitchell J. Hunt

The same types of problems exist with respect to locations in census and vital records. As Mrs. Hope Nash of Royalton once cited with respect to the home location of certain Hunts in Royalton, a certain person might be shown in various census and various VT VRs as a resident of four different towns, yet have lived his entire life on one farm: the reason--he lived in the wilderness near the intersection of four towns, was counted by different census takers of different towns, shopped in the village in one town, went to church in another town, and was buried in the cemetery in another town. Numerous instances of the above problems will be noted in the report to follow.

Aside from the problems which exist with the original records, there were no [state wide] "Vermont Vital Records" until into the 20th century when town clerks were required by law to provide on card files all the data they could find in town records on births, deaths, and marriages. (New Hampshire had a similar experience.) As if it was not hard enough (sometimes) to decipher the handwriting in the original record, the persons preparing the card files varied widely in their own ability to handle a pen. Many of the names in VT VRs are virtually unreadable and some, no matter how they are interpreted, have no relation whatever to the actual names evidenced by other records. Sometimes a corruption of the father's name is shown as the mother's name, and vice versa. Sometimes the father's name appears as the name of the groom (a different name) on a marriage record. Sometimes the name of a sister (a different name--perhaps a bridesmaid) appears as the name of a bride.

The many fables found in histories and some genealogical publications, especially those written in the 19th century, tend to be perpetuated. One would think impressive books, written much closer to the generations discussed, would be more correct than anything prepared in the late 20th century. However, just the opposite is true. Unfortunately, researchers may easily find the older incorrect versions in the original (or republished) works and never pick up the corrections later discovered.

Family legends tend to get written into family records and become imbedded in the minds of descendants, hard to shake and spreading like cancer when they get written down in published works. How do they start? A scenario: a group of grandchildren of a theoretical Rev. Hunt of Virginia (1750-1810) meet at a family picnic in 1830 and start talking about their ancestors; one wonders if they descend from the pioneer Rev. Robert Hunt of Jamestown Colony; another tells another that they may descend from the Rev. Robert Hunt; it is then passed on that they do descend from the Rev. Robert Hunt; one thinks it is just wonderful that they descend from Rev. Robert Hunt and excitedly writes such a note in the family Bible; result--a descendant a hundred years later finds the Bible, reads the note and concludes it must be true because it is written in the family Bible.

Numerous legends of this nature are found in researching the early Hunt families (as will usually be the case in all families). Given the scarcity of records in various time periods and places, it is often necessary to make judgments from circumstantial evidence. Such judgements may or not be correct. In some records persons will be shown with a question mark and the words possibly or probably. Probably means a little stronger than possibly, but it doesn't mean certainty. What sometimes happens is that an original researcher may use the qualifying expression but the person who copies the information may drop it and thereby an expression of possibility gets translated as a fact.

[Mr. Hunt also added the following cautionary note with respect to his own publication: "The admonition not to believe all you read also applies, of course, to the present work. The data in the report ... were compiled over a period of ten to fifteen years by hurriedly copying into note books data on records in a variety of public offices and libraries, copying indistinct gravestones in cemeteries, often in snow or rain, copying (sometimes months and even years later) the data on a typewriter, re-typing the data in preliminary drafts and revisions thereof. Aside from the fact that the data in the original source may be incorrect, it is quite possible--even probable--that errors exist in the present report. Those who might use the work in their own genealogies are well-advised to follow the fundamental advice: verify, see for yourself, and draw your own conclusions. That is good advice with respect to copying from any published report."]

UVM SUMMER CLASS 1997 GENEALOGY & FAMILY HISTORY

Students interweave historical strands of personal, family and community identity by discovering, interpreting, and analyzing sources of genealogical information. Primary and secondary records are explored with individualized "hands-on" experience in research techniques and evaluation of evidence from needle work to old photos to public offices to libraries and microfilms. Data base management (with and without computer) is a critical skill, and the course incorporates an exercise in methodical documentation and how to put research results into coherent and interesting format. Enrollment Limit: 20. Please enroll by May 8. HST 95 / 601126 / 3XC Credits* / Robert Rodgers / Tue. & Thur, 5:45-9 P.M. / May 20-June 26 / L307 Lafayette.

*3XC credits means that the course carries 3 academic hours credit, with "XC" = "Extended Credit" for projects and papers to be completed after the course finally ends. (In other words, you don't have to have all the work done by June 26; sort of an up-front extension!). Students may take the course for credit (if they want units on their transcript for academic credit) or for audit only (which means they don't get unit credit, but also don't have to do required assignments). To register contact: University of Vermont, Continuing Education, 322 South Prospect Street, Burlington, VT 05401-3505, telephone (802) 656-2085, or 1-800 639-3210; fax (802) 656-0306. GSV members who wish may make inquiries directly to Robert Rodgers, the instructor, may call his office (802) 656-4626; there is a message machine there.
